A362: Anti-Privatisation Forum : Working Class Struggle in Action

[2004 - Access image - jpeg, Preservation image - tiff]

This is a red t-shirt and the text on the front reads: "Anti-Privatisation Forum" and on the back: "Working Class Struggle in Action". This t-shirt became the standard 'identifier' of APF activists and sympathisers from the time it was produced in 2004. Thousands of these t-shirts were printed over a number of years (2004-2010) and were proudly worn at APF and community affiliate activities and protests. The t-shirt became so popular during the 2005-2008 years that the APF could not keep up with the demand. During the APF March 2007 Human Rights Day mobilisation at the Constitutional Court, over 80 people wearing this t-shirt were picked up by the police and arrested.

A365: Building Working Class Struggle : No to Cut-Offs : No to Evictions : Phansi GEAR : Phansi Capitalism

[2001 - Access image - jpeg, Preservation image - tiff]

This is a yellow t-shirt and the text on the front reads: "Building Working Class Struggle", and on the back: "no to Cut-Offs, No to Evictions, Phansi GEAR, Phansi Capitalism". This was one of the first t-shirts of the Anti-Privatisation Forum (APF). It was produced for the APF's National Exploratory Workshop (NEW), held in Johannesburg from 30 November to 2 December 2001, which, besides the APF's own membership, brought together a range of other social movements, unionists, community organisations and activists to share anti-privatisation and anti-capitalist struggles, create solidarities and seek new ways of cooperation amongst working class forces across the country.

A372: Orange Farm Water Crisis Committee : Water is Life : Destroy Meter, Enjoy Free Water

[2003 - Access image - jpeg, Preservation image - tiff]

This is a white t-shirt and the text on the front reads: "Orange Farm Water Crisis Committee : Water is Life" and on the back: "Destroy Meter, Enjoy Free Water". The Orange Farm Water Crisis Committee (OFWCC) was one of the Anti-Privatisation Forum's (APF's) early community affiliates. When Joburg Water began its prepaid water meter pilot project in Orange Farm in 2001-2002, the OFWCC was formed in response and produced this t-shirt in 2003. The two slogans on the shirt; 'Water is life' and 'Destroy Meter, Enjoy Free Water' became the standard-bearers of the APF and the Coalition against Water Privatisation's (CAWP's) water struggles for the next several years.

A377: Soweto Electricity Crisis Committee : Stop Electricity Cut-Offs : No to Privatisation

[2001 - Access image - jpeg, Preservation image - tiff]

This is a red t-shirt and the text on the front reads: "Soweto Electricity Crisis Committee" and on the back: "Stop Electricity Cut-Offs, No to Privatisation". When the Anti-Privatisation Forum (APF) was formed in 2000, the Soweto Electricity Crisis Committee (SECC) was one of a handful of community organisations that joined and soon became one of the most well-known (both domestically and internationally) community movements. The SECC produced several outstanding activists and was, for many years, at the forefront of the APF's struggles and activities. This t-shirt is arguably one of the most recognised symbols of South Africa's community-led anti-privatisation struggles.

The ANC is a people's organisation, and the 75 years of its existence have been characterised by sustained mass resistance despite intense repression. On the occasion of its 75th anniversary, the ANC appeals to peace - and freedom - loving people throughout the world to join with them in their struggle for liberation. The defeat of apartheid tyranny will be a victory against racism wherever it is found. ANC, PO Box 31791, Lusaka, Zambia
