SCHOLARSHIPS APPLIED FOR: Cambridge University African Scholarship

PROPOSED UNIVERSITY OVERSEAS: Cambridge.

DESIRED COURSE OF STUDY & REASON:

Wishes to further studies in Education. Believes the future of any nation depends largely on its educational system and status. At present few educationists among Africans. A study of how American and English systems have evolved would be interesting and fruitful to one who will view them from the African point of view. To see these systems at work and to study them with all the literature available would afford a good comparative study with that of South Africa. After having studied that of South Africa a more intensive study of Education of England and in England would bring more understanding of its problems. By going overseas applicant would make a thorough study of the guidance movement. Vocational guidance is badly needed in African Schools: as far as applicant knows there are no tests standardised for Bantu children. This knowledge would save many Bantu children from being misplaced.

Bachelor of Law or M.A. (in Politics).

Candidate's association with courts of Law has developed in a liking for the legal profession. He is now well acquainted with the practical application of the Law and feels that it would be best if he obtained a certificate in this field of study. He also maintains that the field of Law has little been explored by Africans in this country. In Natal there are no African lawyers.

In regard to Politics he feels that as the African develops educationally no sphere of education should be left unexplored and also the Africans up to now know very little, if any, about the doctrines which form the basis of different modern States.

DESIRED COURSE OF STUDY AND REASONS:

Wishes to read for LL.B. The Bechuanaland Protectorate is still backward in all respects, particularly industrially, which he says is due to the ignorance of the people with regard to legal involvements in matters of prospecting minerals. This would advance the industry of the territory.

Also wishes to help in the administration. Tribal administration is still cumbersome and primitive. Intends to advance his people's understanding of their relationships with their neighbours, those away from them and this can only be through knowledge of law and land.
